THREE HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

One smiles to think—
For one may smile the touched, resonance
Row they the folk of Plymouth town,
Marched up to church, sat, and marched down,
Three hunared years ago.

Each Sabbath morn.
When the appointed hour had come,
Out of his house into the street
A punctual drummer came, and beat
A loud call on his drum.

This signal given.
Each family came forth and stept
Directly to the rendezvous;
And all the men were armed, and you
Should know how still they kept.

Like minutemen— Like soldiers who at once obey The call to arms and nothing ask, Ready whatever be the task— Right into ranks fell they.

Before the house of Captain Standish, who, 'tis said, A fine Damasous award possest, Their sergeant formed them, abreast, And placed himself ahead.

Behind this brave Armed escort came the Governor In his long robe, and at his right Came Eider Brewster, dark as nig In that black cloak he wore;

And at his left Came Standish, man of iron cast, And then the women with the young— The little ones that to them clung— And then the servants last.

Ordered to march.
All took the billouth wary-eyed
That led them churchward; and when

Rich, red blood is the source of vital power. It repairs the daily wastage of the body-builds new tissue-creates vital energy-makes

But when the blood loses its richness-becomes impoverishedthe whole bodily health suffers. The vital energy becomes exhausted -the nerves get shaky-the vitality diminishes-and we get weak, anaemic, nervous and run-down. To restore the richness of the blood, the body must be supplied with those materials which make rich, red

Lack of rich, red blood makes you Weak-Anaemic-Nervous - Run-down

'In almost every case of weakness, im-poverished blood, nervousness and run-down vitality, there is a real shortege in the body of several mineral elements which are absolutely essential to the creation of vital energy. These elements are, particularly, Iron, Calcium, Potassi-um, Sodium and Phosphorus. Therefore all these must be restored to the body to enable it to replace the vital energy which has been expended and

Choose the right way to health

Get well-but get well in a logical way. Use great care in your choice. Remember this important fact:—when the body requires a variety of mineral elements-it must have all of them. No amount of any single one will do. For instance, fron is excellent for making blood red. But no amount of iron alone will be sufficient when the body requires Iron, and Calcium, and Potsssium, and Sodium, and Phosphorus, as it does in the majority of cases of weakness, impoverished blood, nervousness and run-down vitality. Wincarnis contains all of these because it is prepared especially for weak, snaemic, nervous and run-down men and women. Over 10,000 physicians have recommended Wincafnis. Your
